Planet' Touch is an educational game that teaches children the value of nature and sustainable development. The game takes place in a beautiful outdoor scene filled with nature, animals, friendly faces, and unfortunately garbage. The goal is to find all the garbage and deposit it in the appropriate recycling container, whether it is glass, paper, cans, or waste. The child has won when all the garbage has been picked up and the scene is clean.

How to Play

The game begins with a bustling outdoor scene filled with nature and people enjoying themselves. However, the scene is also filled with flies and rubbish.

There are three scenes to choose from including a park, a ski slope, and a beach. To clean the scene, find a piece of rubbish and use your finger to move it to the appropriate rubbish bin. Shoes and animal droppings go in the waste bin. Everything else is recycled in the corresponding bin.

How to Play (continued)

Every time a piece of rubbish is deposited in the correct bin, the player(s) are rewarded with a beautiful flower or tree appearing in place of the rubbish. As the player continues to clean their scene, the flies will be transformed into butterflies.

The different scenes are accessible via the “Options” button, which appears when the corner hand icon is touched. The Hand menu also allows players to “Quit,” and view “Instructions.”

The game is finished as soon as every piece of rubbish has been correctly disposed of, and the scene is completely clean. All the flies will have been changed into butterflies as well.

A congratulations banner will appear to let the player(s) know they have won.
